

Modals

Might

1.It is used to talk about less possibility.(A more doubtful action)

She might help you.

It might rain.

It might work.

He might forgive you.

He might go to the party.

Subject+might be+Noun/adjective/
prepositional phrase

To guess about present more doubtfully.

He might be a teacher.

She might be a doctor.

They might be students.

He might be at office.

She might be in the kitchen.

Raju might be in the class.

He might be busy.

She might be sad.

He might be listening to class.

They might be going to temple.

2.As the past form of 'may' in Indirect speech.

He said that it might rain.

She told me that she might pay the bill.

He said that he might book the tickets.

Modals

Shall

1) It is used with 'I' and 'we' in Simple future.

I shall come there next week.

We shall start a new branch next year.

I shall attend the class tomorrow.

2) To make a suggestion
(with 'we')

Shall we go to the party?

Yes, let us.

No, let's not.

Shall we have non-veg?

Shall we practise tenses?

Shall we watch the movie?

3) To make an offer.

(with 'I' and 'we')

Shall I help you?

Shall we help you?

Reply: Yes, please

No, thanks.

Shall I give the change?

Shall I drop you?

Shall I give you my book?

Shall I explain it again?

Shall I get you some water?

Shall I make some coffee for you?

4) With he, she, you, they to indicate determination or obligation.

He shall go there.

They shall come here.

She shall attend the meeting.

You shall meet him.

Modals(for practice)

To make an offer

1	2	3
Shall	I	help you? explain it again? give you the change? book the tickets for you? drop you? bring the book? give you my book? get you some coffee? fetch you some water? cook lunch for you? buy you a laptop?

Reply: Yes, please. That would be nice/Thank you, that would be great.

No, thanks/No, thank you.

To make a suggestion

1	2	3
Shall	we	practise tenses? watch the movie? stay here tonight? go to IMAX? hit the road? hit the books? have some tea? have dinner at Minerva? have biryani at Paradise? go for a walk? go walking? start the work? call it a day? book the tickets?

Reply: Yes, let us
No, let's not.